

Swiss Long-Span Bridge

Overview

Switzerland opened the Charles Kuonen Suspension Bridge, the world's longest pedestrian suspension bridge, on July 29th. The bridge spans 1,621 feet and sits 279 feet above the valley floor, with a flexible, metal-mesh floor offering clear views below. If you walk the entire route, you can enjoy views of the Matterhorn, the Weisshorn and the Bernese Alps. The suspension bridge can also. The 1915 Çanakkale Bridge in Turkey, opened in 2022, has the longest central span (2,023 m) of any suspension bridge. It crosses the Dardanelles in Turkey. A superb destination for any height-loving daredevil, not only will this bridge reduce the multi-hour hike across the Zermatt Valley to 10 minutes, but it also gives you stunning views. As the train ascends the Mattertal from Visp to Zermatt, the Alp's longest pedestrian suspension bridge comes into view high on the mountainside above Randa.
